SARDAR VALLABHBHAI PATEL THE ARCHITECT OF MODERN INDIA

Vallabhbhai Jhaverbhai Patel occupies a prominent place among those heroic men and women who worked for India's freedom and helped not only to win it, but also to consolidate it. Although, he came to public life only in his early forties, his thirty-three years of work for the cause of the nation is full of many-splendoured achievements. Along with Gandhiji, Jawaharlal Nehru and some other leaders, he dominated the politics of the country during the crucial thirty years from 1920 to 1950.

He was not only a great leader of the masses, but also a far-seeing statesman and an able administrator who handled with consummate mastery and finesse, the complex problems facing the new Government. In the words of Jawaharlal Nehru, "History will record many things about him in its pages and call him the builder and consolidator of new India..." Vallabhbhai Patel was born on October 31, 1875 at Nadiad in Kheda district of Gujarat. His parents Jhaverbhai Patel and Ladbai came from peasant background. It is said that his father had in early life enrolled himself in the army of Rani of Jhansi and fought against the British.

Vallabhbhai was the fourth son in a family of five brothers and a sister. He received his early education at Karamsad and then at Petlad, a small town about eleven kilometres away, in a school where English was taught up to the fifth standard. He matriculated from the Nadiad High School. His family could not finance his college education and therefore, he prepared for the District Pleaders' examination for which he had to borrow most of the books. He passed the examination and took up law practice at Godhra, later shifting to Borsad, where he became quite proficient in handling criminal cases.

Like the illustrious American President Abraham Lincoln, Vallabhbhai Patel was a self-made man who had worked with his father in the fields till he was seventeen.

In 1893, when only 18, he married Jhaverbai. In 1909 at the age of 34, his wife died after an operation in a Bombay hospital. When the news reached him at Borsad, he was in court arguing in a murder case. Totally unruffled, he went on arguing the case. But the news had stunned him. He never married again. Vallabhbhai was keen on going to England and studying for the Bar and saved money for the purpose. He wrote to a travel agency to arrange his passage. The firm addressed its reply to V.J. Patel and, as chance would have it, the letter was delivered to his elder

The University Grants Commission (UGC) conducts the National Eligibility Test (NET) exam to screen Indian candidates who are eligible for:

- ♦ Assistant Professor positions in government colleges and universities in India, or
- ♦ Junior Research Fellowship (JRF), or
- ♦ both.

For JRD, the age limit is set at 30 years. But there is no upper age limit for becoming a college lecturer. If one has 55% in your Master's Degree (as a General Category candidate), he or she is eligible to appear for the NET exam.

Reserved category students or PhD degree holders can apply for the exam even if they have 50% aggregate marks at the Master's degree level.

With the 7th Pay Commission, the entry pay for the Assistant

HOW TO PREPARE FOR ONLINE UGC NET 2019 EXAM

Professor position in government colleges is Rs 57,700 (excluding allowances like HRA, DA, and others). Those who love the stability of government jobs as a college teacher will need to clear the UGC NET exam first.

NET-qualified students are also eligible for lucrative jobs in public sector undertakings (PSUs, especially in the fields of:

- ♦ Science (Research & Development)

- ♦ Management
- ♦ Corporate Communications
- ♦ Human Resources, and
- ♦ Finance.

In June 2019, the newly-formed National Testing Agency (NTA) conducted the NTA UGC NET for the first time. Despite the change in the passing percentage, the results of the June 2019 exam was still abysmal - around 6%. No wonder, it is considered the second-toughest exam in India after the UPSC (Union Public Service Commission) exams.

The NTA will again conduct the NET exam from 2nd to 6th December 2019- only in the online mode.

Since this is going to be a computer-based test (CBT), one will have to take both Paper 1 & Paper 2 in a single session. It means that candidates will not get any break between the two papers.

Paper 1 is of 1 hour duration. It has 50 questions with a total worth of 100 marks. 5 questions will be asked for each of the following categories:

- ♦ Communication
- ♦ Data Interpretation
- ♦ Higher Education System: Governance, Polity & Administration
- ♦ Information & Communication Technology (ICT)
- ♦ Logical Reasoning

brother Vithalbhai, who also wanted to go to England but had no money. Vallabhbhai not only let him go but also undertook to support his family during his absence.

Vallabhbhai himself went to England later. He passed his final Bar-at-Law examination with first position and distinction for which he was awarded a cash prize of £50. He returned to India in February 1913 as a full-fledged barrister. On Vallabhbhai's arrival, Sir Basil Scott, the Chief Justice of Bombay, offered him an appointment in the Government Law School which Vallabhbhai declined. He did not want to serve the British Government. Patel specialised in criminal cases and soon had a flourishing practice. At that time, Patel's mode of living and dressing up was like that of a European. He was fond of playing bridge. He decorated his office with up-to-date furniture which, according to Sheth Kasturbhai, a leading businessman of those days, was unique. He was a member of the Gujarat Club, rendezvous of Ahmedabad's fashionable society.

It was in 1917 that Patel first came in contact with Gandhiji, having been impressed by his leadership in the Champaran satyagraha. About this time, Gandhiji became the President of the Gujarat Sabha which held its first Political Conference at Godhra in November. Vallabhbhai was appointed as its Secretary. The same year, he was elected as a member of the Ahmedabad Municipal Board. Later, he became its President. He organised very successful relief operations during floods, drought and epidemics.

Vallabhbhai's political career had a modest beginning. The first campaign organized jointly by Gandhiji and Patel was the Kheda satyagraha from March to June, 1918, in which, though the victory was not decisive, the sturdy peasantry of Vallabhbhai's home district learnt the lesson of fearlessness. A year later, when Gandhiji was arrested in April 1919, the people of Nadiad and Kheda soon showed the Government that they were not as weak as they looked.

The non-cooperation movement which Gandhiji launched on August 1, 1920 was a novel experiment in human history. No wonder, opinion even in the nationalist ranks was not united in support of it. Vallabhbhai, however, gave his whole-hearted support to Gandhiji's programme and even before the special session of the Congress was held at Calcutta in September, he used his influence with the provincial leaders at the Gujarat Political Conference in August 1920 to persuade them to commit themselves to Gandhiji's programme and to recommend its adoption by the Congress. Though the movement failed in its political objective, Vallabhbhai's work had a deep impact by changing the climate of opinion in Gujarat, and eliminating from it the influence of old-style moderate politicians.

The non-cooperation movement was a watershed in India's long struggle to achieve freedom. For the first time after 1857, the British again felt their hold over India shaken. However, after the withdrawal of the movement following the Chauri Chaura incident in February 1922 and Gandhiji's arrest in March, the British Government seemed to be as firmly in control as ever.

Then came the Borsad satyagraha of 1923, when Gandhiji was in jail, and later in 1928, on a much more impressive scale, the Bardoli satyagraha. The epic struggle of Bardoli, which constitutes one of the most glorious chapters in the history of India's struggle for freedom, brought out in bold relief the basic traits of Vallabhbhai's personality—an indomitable will and perseverance, a fine sense of strategy and calculation, complete identification with the espoused cause, total disregard of sentimentalism, an iron discipline imposed upon himself and those working with him and selflessness to the point of self-denial. Bardoli, in fact, was a unique personal triumph for Vallabhbhai. It was in acknowledgment of the efficiency with which he conducted the movement that he was acclaimed as the 'Sardar'—the leader, a title by which he came to be known to the nation ever since.

The Dandi March, in 1930, electrified the people with a new self-confidence. Hundreds of young soldiers of Gandhiji's non-violent movement braved police assaults as they raided the Government salt depots at Dharasana and demonstrated a type of courage and self-restraint which the world had never seen before. Prominent women of Gujarat organised picketing of foreign cloth shops and liquor booths and, by their disciplined strength, brought about a change in women's status which even a century of reform movement had failed to achieve. The achievement was largely Vallabhbhai's.

Even before he entered politics, Vallabhbhai had become known for his sturdy independence both as a lawyer and a city father. He had humbled two arrogant British civilians and a British engineer foisted on the municipality by the British authorities and had obliged all three to leave. During the non-cooperation movement, Vallabhbhai had persuaded the Municipal Council with the support of the teachers, to make the primary schools independent of government control. After Gandhiji's arrest in March 1922, Vallabhbhai remained a firm 'no-changer' in the controversy over the formation of the Swaraj Party, led by C.R. Das and Motilal Nehru. He demonstrated the effectiveness of direct action, by taking up the leadership of the Flag satyagraha in Nagpur in July 1923, and organising the people of the Borsad taluka in the Kheda district to resist payment of an unjust punitive tax imposed on the taluka by the British Government. Re-entering the municipality in 1924, Vallabhbhai became the President of the Council, and during his four years in this office set an example of rectitude and efficiency which won the admiration even of his critics. During the unprecedented Gujarat floods of July 1927, the Sardar was on his feet from the very first night of the deluge and worked tirelessly week after week. Gandhiji was then in Bangalore, but Vallabhbhai and his band of workers had already learnt the art of disciplined service and did their work so well that even Lord Irwin, during his visit to Gujarat in December, publicly acknowledged the superb efficiency of the relief operations organised by the Gujarat Congress.

When Civil Disobedience Movement came, Sardar Patel was among the first national leaders to be arrested. That was on March 7, 1930, a few days before the Dandi March commenced. But whether in jail or out of it, he received unstinted co-operation from the volunteers who had responded to his call, and they made a complete success of Gandhiji's programme of defiance of salt laws and boycott of foreign cloth.

Gujarat's massive contribution to the national movement was gratefully recognised by the nation when Sardar was made President of the Congress which met at Karachi in the last week of March 1931 to consider and approve the Gandhi-Irwin Pact. It was an extremely difficult situation for any Congress President to handle, for the execution a few days earlier of Bhagat Singh, Sukhdev and Rajguru, had enraged the nation beyond measure and ratification by the Congress of the Gandhi-Irwin agreement seemed almost an impossibility. But Vallabhbhai softened the opposition by himself condemning the execution as "heartless" and promising resumption of the struggle after six months, if the parleys at the Round Table Conference failed. They did and Gandhiji returned empty-handed. The Government had made advance preparations to crush the Civil Disobedience Movement, and within a week of Gandhiji's landing in Bombay, all the leaders were arrested. This time Vallabhbhai was lodged in Yeravda jail with Gandhiji. Their days together in jail from March 1932 to April 1933 have been delightfully chronicled by Mahadev Desai who joined them later. He has described Vallabhbhai's mother-like concern for Gandhiji's comfort and his infectious humour about which Gandhiji remarked, "I have in my little camp of four a special privileged jester in Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel. He succeeds in bending me almost double with laughter over his unexpected sallies. Gloom hides her fiendish face in his presence. No disappointment, however great, can make him gloomy for long. And he will not let me be serious for two consecutive minutes. He will not spare even my saintliness." Gandhiji, after release from jail, spoke of the tender feelings of Sardar Patel. In his words, "...I was well aware of his matchless bravery but... I never knew him to possess motherly qualities. If the slightest thing happened to me, he would be out of his bed. He superintended every detail in connection with my comforts."

The Sardar's loyalty and affection did not, however, stand in the way of his disagreeing with the Mahatma when occasion demanded. For example, Vallabhbhai insisted on getting back the Gujarat Vidyapith library which, with Gandhiji's consent, had been handed over to the Ahmedabad Municipality while Vallabhbhai was in jail. Vallabhbhai had come to the aid of the Vidyapith when it was in financial difficulties during the twenties and had collected for it as much as ten lakh rupees. The Vidyapith had all along been rendering invaluable national service by producing alumni, qualified and willing to do work in the villages. When after the withdrawal of the Civil Disobedience Movement in 1934 the Vidyapith was revived, Vallabhbhai was made its Vice-Chancellor and later, after Gandhiji's death, Chancellor.

The collection of books which Vallabhbhai thus saved in 1934 have now become one of the biggest libraries in Ahmedabad and Gujarat Vidyapith continues to supply well-trained village workers. Sardar Patel was among the front-rank leaders who appreciated Gandhiji's intention of resigning from the Congress in 1934, to devote himself to the revival of village industries, and rendered all possible assistance to the new programme. When the Congress decided to contest the elections to the Central Legislative Assembly in November 1934, the main burden of the election

HOW TO PREPARE ...

- ♦ People & Environment,
- ♦ Reading Comprehension,
- ♦ Reasoning (including Numerical Reasoning),
- ♦ Research Aptitude, and
- ♦ Teaching Aptitude.

Paper 2 has a duration of 2 hours. It has 100 questions with a total worth of 200 questions. So, one will have to solve 150 questions carrying a total of 300 marks in the three-hour exam duration. All the questions will be of objective multiple-choice types. They will be related to the subject candidates have chosen.

There will be no choice in the exam. Each question is worth 2 marks. Fortunately, there is no negative marking in the exam. Hence, if a candidate gets stuck, he or she can use the elimination technique to choose an answer that seems most likely to be correct.

Some changes have been made to the UGC NET syllabus this year. So, it will be a wise move to check out the NTA UGC NET syllabus for December 2019 carefully while preparing for the exam.

Please note that there are no sectional cut-offs in the exam. It means that the total marks in the exam (including Paper 1 and Paper 2 marks) will be considered while declaring the NET results.

If candidates are not familiar with computer-based exams, they may access free practice sessions at the designated Test Practice Centres (TPCs) run by the NTA on weekends (Saturdays and Sundays). One may also download the NTA app and hone his or her online exam taking skills right at home.

Review of the NTA UGC NET Exam conducted in June 2019

NET coaching experts believed that the June exam had a moderate to hard difficulty level compared to the previous exam. It was conducted in two shifts:

- ♦ The morning shift was from 9:30 am to 12:30 pm.
- ♦ The evening shift was from 2:30 pm to 5:30 pm.

Candidates were given rough paper and pen in the examination centre. They were not allowed to carry any gadgets or phone inside the examination hall. Only admit cards were allowed inside the examination venue.

In the Paper 1 exam

- ♦ 10-12 questions were asked from the Teaching Aptitude, focussing on:
- ♦ Evaluation of Learner's Ability,
- ♦ Emotional Ability,
- ♦ Discussion Method, and
- ♦ Inclusive Education.

These questions were slightly difficult to answer.

- ♦ 5 to 7 questions were asked from the Research Aptitude. They focused on:
- ♦ Hypothesis,
- ♦ Diagnostic Research, and
- ♦ Research Ethics related to Plagiarism. They had moderate to hard difficulty levels.

- ♦ 5 questions were based on Reading Comprehension. The passage was on famous statue by Michelangelo called 'David'. They had easy to moderate difficulty levels.

- ♦ 3 to 5 easy questions were asked from Communication. They were based on:
- ♦ Communication Barriers, and

- ♦ Mass Media & Society.
- ♦ 4 to 6 questions were related to Mathematical Reasoning. They were easy to moderate and were related to:
- ♦ Alphabet Series,
- ♦ Simple Interest,
- ♦ HCF & LCM,
- ♦ Time & Work, and
- ♦ Blood Relations.

Some of them were tricky.

- ♦ 5 to 8 questions from Logical Reasoning hovered around:
- ♦ Propositions,
- ♦ Syllogism & Inference, and
- ♦ Venn Diagrams.

They were moderately difficult.

- ♦ 5 questions from Data Interpretation were quite easy. They were based on:
- ♦ Table Charts,
- ♦ Interpretation of Table-based Data, and
- ♦ Percentages. www.Jobriya.com

- ♦ 2 to 3 easy questions were related to knowledge of computers or ICT. They were about basic concepts of:

- ♦ Operating System
- ♦ Virus
- ♦ Storage Device
- ♦ Memory, and
- ♦ Bluetooth.

- ♦ 3 to 4 easy to moderate questions were related to Environment and Current Affairs. They focused around:
- ♦ Rio Summit in Stockholm,
- ♦ Ozone Layer, and
- ♦ Tropical Cyclones.

- ♦ 3 to 5 moderately difficult questions from Higher Education System focused around:

- ♦ SWAYAM
- ♦ Articles
- ♦ Higher Education Channels and MOOCs
- ♦ Digital Initiative in Higher Education
- ♦ Kothari Commission and other educational reforms in post-independence India, and
- ♦ Responsibility of UGC.

This exam analysis should give NET aspirants a fair idea of what to expect in the exam. One can choose to study the important topics first. Keep an eye on the latest news and developments in the education field, especially government initiatives.

How to Prepare for the NTA NET 2019 Exam?

1. Devote 30% of your time to Paper 1 and 70% to Paper 2.

Paper 1's syllabus is endless. Now that candidates have less than two months left for their exam preparation, it will not be wise to pick up new topics at the moment.

Paper 2's syllabus is mostly related to what candidates have already studied in graduation and postgraduation. Devoting more time to Paper 2 will help them net more marks in less effort.

As mentioned above, the NET exam does not have sectional cut-offs. Hence, the overall marks matter most.

2. Divide a day in 10-hours, 8-hours, and 6-hours slots.

- ♦ 10 hours: for Study Routine. Experts suggest NET aspirants to devote:
- ♦ 3 hours to Paper 1, and
- ♦ 7 hours to Paper 2.

For Paper 1, dedicate at least one hour to revision and one hour to solving previous years' papers. Use the last hour to study the topics that are still unfinished.

For Paper 2, dedicate at least one hour to revision and one hour to solving previous years' papers. Take help of someone to correct the paper one has solved (using the answer keys available online) while the candidate finishes with his or her revisions. Candidates can then analyze their performance and find out where they went wrong. Some of the common reasons why candidates give wrong answers are:

- ♦ They didn't read the full question.
- ♦ They didn't understand the question correctly.
- ♦ They made a silly mistake.
- ♦ They had no idea about the topic on which the question was based.

Plug these loopholes to improve the exam preparation level in a short time.

- ♦ 8 hours: for Sleeping. Sleep plays a crucial role in exam preparation. It consolidates the information one has studied during the day and cements it in the memory. It improves one's ability to concentrate and pay attention to what one is learning. And of course, it allows one to recover from the physical and mental stress one goes through during exams. It also regulates one's metabolism and keeps one's physical and mental health in the best shape. Don't skimp on sleep if you really want to succeed.
- ♦ 6 hours: for doing your Routine Work. Many people who take UGC NET exam are already working or doing post-doctoral courses. Many UGC NET aspirants might also have families to look after. They need to be efficient to finish everything that needs to be done and cannot be avoided during these six hours.

3. Paper 1 is Easy but it needs Consistency.

Despite what everybody says, the truth is that the Paper 1 of UGC NET exam is quite easy. One can easily score 80+ marks in this paper. Many of the questions asked in this paper are picked up directly from previous years. So, if a candidate solves papers from past years religiously and grasp the exam pattern, it should be easy for him or her to score well in the first paper.

Study for Paper 1 every day. Never skip it just because it's easy. Consistency is the key to score more in this paper.

One can start with easy units like:

- ♦ Teaching Aptitude,
- ♦ Research Aptitude,
- ♦ Communication, and
- ♦ ICT.

Move on to other topics only when one has covered these important topics first. One may also start with Logical Reasoning, Mathematical Reasoning and Data Interpretation practice side-by-side.

Devote a few minutes (15 to 20 minutes) to:

- ♦ Higher Education,
- ♦ Environment, and
- ♦ General Awareness

everyday over the next month.

Some people may find that Reading Comprehension and Data Interpretation as time-consuming portions of the UGC NET syllabus. But these sections also need regular practice. Hence, they will need to devote at least 15 minutes to them every day. Many apps and educational websites can help such people with Reading Comprehension in an interesting way. They can use them to introduce some variety to their study schedule.

It is always best to study in the time-bound manner. Once a person decides that he or she needs to finish a particular portion of study in a specific time period, his or her brain works in a more efficient manner.

4. Use 10 Minutes a Day to reach your Prime state

Tony Robbins is a multi-millionaire and a self-made person. He follows a ritual that he calls 'Priming' which can be useful to you as a NET aspirant. It takes only 10 minutes to perform the ritual. It includes:

♦ Meditation

Tony Robbins suggests a breathing exercise here:

- ♦ Sit straight.
- ♦ Close your eyes.
- ♦ Inhale deeply through your nostrils. Simultaneously, lift your arms in a shoulder press motion. Then, exhale forcefully through your nostrils as your bring arms back to your body with your palms facing upwards.

Repeat it 10 times in quick succession.

Repeat 3 sets of the exercise.

♦ Practicing Gratitude

Think of three things that you should be grateful for. Tony Robbins writes that gratefulness drives away fear and anger. Oprah Winfrey agrees. Regularly practicing gratitude is a healthy practice to introduce more positivity in your life.

♦ Visualization

You may choose to visualize a pure white light healing you physically, emotionally, and spiritually. Or walking down a beautiful beach as sun is setting in the great vast ocean to de-stress.

Once you are relaxed, visualize your goals as if you have already achieved them. NET aspirants may try visualizing that they have already cracked the exam with good marks and feel the joy bubbling within them.

This technique can rewire your brain for success.

Once you finish these three steps, it is a good idea to set your target for the day. Write it down. At the end of the day, evaluate your progress.

5. Get Free Coaching for the UGC NET exam

NTA offers free coaching and mock test series to all NET aspirants. Poor students and students in remote areas can also benefit from this scheme. To avail this facility, one has to:

- ♦ Visit the official website of NTA. One can register on the website using your Gmail ID or Facebook ID.
- ♦ Download the last years' UGC NET question papers & model test papers for free.
- ♦ Candidates can also analyse their mock test results with NTA mentors.
- ♦ The teachers will also help students with the subject-related problems at the test practice centres.

SARDAR ....

campaign fell on Vallabhbhai and, though he himself had never been a whole-hearted supporter of the parliamentary programme, he became, since then more and more involved in parliamentary activities. Later, as Chairman of the Parliamentary Board, Vallabhbhai was overall in charge of the Congress election campaigns both in 1937 and 1946. He established an efficient machinery not only for winning the elections but also for co-ordinating the work of the ministries and ensuring that they faithfully carried out Congress' policies and worked under the direction of the national organisation.

The Sardar's work during this early phase of the parliamentary programme was of inestimable value in creating an all-India framework for the functioning of provincial ministries and thereby preparing the ground for the evolution in post-independence India of a truly national political outlook. Another sensitive problem which required most careful handling was, that of the freedom struggle in the Indian states. With the winds of change blowing in British India, the subjects of the princely states were getting restive and beginning to organise themselves for civil and political rights. The Congress policy, laid down at Gandhiji's instance, had been one of avoiding direct interference in the affairs of the states and till then Gandhiji had even discouraged satyagraha in the states. This policy had the support of Vallabhbhai. They both knew that once the protection of the British Government ended, the Indian princes would not be able to resist the demands of their subjects, and they also felt that the princes would be patriotic enough to co-operate with the leaders of British India as soon as they were free to do so. But when Congress ministries started functioning in the provinces, the atmosphere in the country changed and the political organisations in Indian states began to demand affiliation with the National Congress and its support in their struggle against their rulers. At the Haripura Congress Session in February 1938, the Congress agreed to recognise organisations of the states' subjects and guide their movements. At the Tripuri Congress Session in March 1939, the policy was further revised and the struggle of the states' subjects was made part and parcel of the national struggle for freedom. The Sardar had all the time been in close contact with the leaders of the states' subjects in Gujarat and now began to take more active interest in guiding them. He presided over the conferences of the Prajamandals of Baroda and Bhavnagar states and entered into negotiations with the Rajkot ruler on behalf of the states' subjects. The struggle in Rajkot became an all-India issue and brought Gandhiji too on the scene. With the outbreak of the Second World War in September 1939, the national struggle entered its last phase and the Muslim League's demand for Pakistan added to it a dimension which was a challenge even for the phenomenal moral influence of the Mahatma. The events took such a turn and communal unrest reached such proportions that the majority of the national leaders became convinced that the choice was between partition, as demanded by the Muslim league, and anarchy in the country. Vallabhbhai had all along opposed the demand for Pakistan, but he also accepted the Mountbatten plan for partition in the prevailing circumstances. Accordingly, the Congress Working Committee took the fateful decision to accept it. The 'finest hour' in the life of Sardar Patel came when, as the first Deputy Prime Minister and Home Minister, he had to deal with the incorporation of over 560 princely states in the Indian Union. Lord Mountbatten, who had frequently discussed this subject with him, had written, "We were, ofcourse, particularly closely associated in dealing with the future of the 565 princely states. My instructions from the British Government were to hand back paramountcy to all the rulers on the transfer of power to British India. This would then in theory, have created 565 entirely independent sovereign states within the borders of the Indian subcontinent... There is no doubt that the high-minded statesmanship which Vallabhbhai Patel displayed throughout these very difficult negotiations made it possible to find a solution."

All the princes had entered into agreements with the paramount power and all were jealous of their rights and privileges. To persuade such a motley crowd to come to terms with the new India was a Herculean task. Sardar Patel appealed to their sense of patriotism and said, "We are at a momentous stage in the history of India. By common endeavour, we can raise the country to a new greatness while lack of unity will expose us to fresh calamities. I hope the Indian states will bear in mind that the alternative to co-operation in the general interest is anarchy and chaos which will overwhelm great and small in a common ruin if we are unable to act together in the minimum of common tasks."

On October 15, 1950 Sardar Patel died of cardiac arrest in Mumbai. The grateful nation conferred upon him the honour of Bharat Ratna in 1991. U.N. Dhebar, renowned freedom fighter in a commemorative lecture on Sardar Patel on September 5, 1975 said, "His contribution is often times compared to that of Bismarck of Germany. If one goes, however, into the history of Germany as related by H.G. Wells, one would understand the great difference between the two. First, the integration of states, that took place in India was on a much vast scale. Secondly, it had to be worked out in much greater depth in India. Thirdly, there was a qualitative difference in the process adopted in the two countries... What was achieved in the brief span of two or three years and what we have inherited is something which everyone can be proud of-a united country under a single constitution, under a single parliamentary forum elected on the basis of adult suffrage, a united economic framework and a united army..." Once when a seasoned worker was facing some domestic problem and wanted to retire, the Sardar said, 'When I joined Gandhiji, I collected some firewood, lit a fire, put all considerations of my family, my career, my reputation and everything in the fire. I do not know what would be left of all these except the ashes.' True to his words, when he died, his personal clothing was his only belonging. Paying tributes to Sardar Patel, the Manchester Guardian wrote, 'Patel was not only the organiser of the fight for freedom but also the architect of the new State when the fight was over. The same man is seldom successful as a rebel and a statesman. Sardar Patel was the exception'.

India's defence exports have grown seven times in the last two years, reaching a value of two billion dollars. According to Joint Secretary in the Department of Defence Production Dr. Sanjay Jaju, the country is working out modalities to become a hub in top class defence production with efforts being made to increase defence exports to five billion dollars in the near future. He said 440 companies in the private sector have taken up defence production in the last five years. These companies have been given contracts worth five lakh crore rupees for the supply of defence equipment. On the role of start ups in defence sector, Dr. Jaju said that Artificial Intelligence, autonomous systems, cyber-defence, smart ammunition and weapons are areas in which the start ups are going to play an innovative role.

The Reserve Bank has issued guidelines on 'on tap' authorisation of payment systems, including minimum networth criteria for different players, with an aim to encourage innovation and competition. In a circular, the RBI said it has been decided to offer on-tap authorisation for Bharat Bill Payment Operating Unit (BBPOU), Trade Receivables Discounting System (TReDS) and White Label

ATMs (WLAs). For entities desirous to function, operate, or provide platforms for BBPOU, the RBI said they should have a 100 crore rupees net worth and should be maintained at all times. In case of TReDS, the minimum paid up equity capital should be 25 crore rupees. The minimum net worth for entities desirous of entering the WLA segment should be 100 crore rupees. Earlier in January this year, the Reserve Bank had released a policy paper on authorisation of new retail payment systems.

Negotiators from the European Union and the UK have reached an agreement on a Brexit deal before a meeting of European leaders in Brussels. British Prime Minister Boris Johnson and European Commission President Jean-Claude Juncker called it a fair outcome. He urged MPs to come together to get Brexit done and get this excellent deal over the line. He added, now is the moment for us to get Brexit done and then together to work on building our future partnership. The EU Commission President Jean-Claude Juncker said, there was no need to extend the Brexit deadline.

The World Trade Organization, WTO, has formally given the go-ahead for the United States to impose trade sanctions on up to 7.5 billion dollars worth of European Union goods. This follows a ruling that European planemaker Airbus received illegal subsidies. The move by the WTO's dispute settlement body was largely a formality after the long-awaited ruling by a WTO arbitration panel on the 2nd of this month. The ruling found that the European bloc and member States Britain, France, Germany and Spain failed to remove improper subsidies for Airbus that hindered sales by US rival Boeing. Following this, the US has slapped tariffs on a record 7.5-billion Dollars worth of European goods. Airbus, French wine and Scottish whiskies are among the high-profile targets. The tariffs were imposed despite pleas from European officials for a last-minute reprieve and French Economy Minister Bruno Le Maire warning of retaliation.

In Sri Lanka, Jaffna International Airport (JIA) received its inaugural flight from Chennai on 17 October in presence of President Maithripala Sirisena and Prime Minister Ranil Wickremesinghe. The Alliance Air flight, carrying Air India CMD

Ashwini Lohani and its CEO C.S.Subbiah among invitees from the aviation sector, made its inaugural landing. There will be three flights a week to Chennai. Connectivity to Tiruchirapalli and Kochi is also planned in the coming months. This will give a big boost to Jaffna connectivity with Southern India. Jaffna airport was operational during the 60s and 70s but was closed down following eruption of the LTTE war.

Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) President-elect Sourav Ganguly has said that resumption of bilateral cricket ties with Pakistan is subject to approval from Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi and his counterpart Imran Khan. Asked about the resumption of India-Pakistan bilateral ties during a media briefing in Kolkata, Ganguly said, this question should be asked to Modi ji and the Pakistan Prime Minister. The last time both neighbours featured in a bilateral series was in 2012 when India hosted Pakistan for a limited-overs series comprising two T20Is and three ODIs. The 47-year-old Ganguly, who will take charge as BCCI's next President on October 23, had led India on the historic tour of Pakistan in 2004, the first bilateral series since the Kargil war in 1999 and India's first visit to Pakistan since 1989.
