VISION FOR NATIONAL DATA AND ANALYTICS PLATFORM

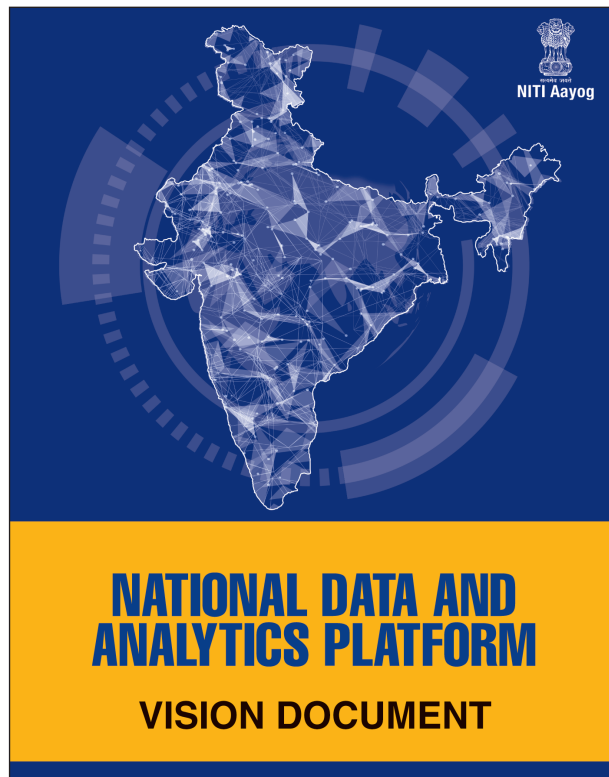

NITI Aayog has released a vision document for the National Data and Analytics Platform (NDAP). The platform's aim is to democratize access to publicly available government data. It will host the latest datasets from various government websites, present them coherently, and provide tools for analytics and visualization. NDAP will follow a user-centric approach and will enable data access in a simple and intuitive portal tailored to the needs of a variety of stakeholders.

NDAP will spearhead the standardization of formats in which data is presented across sectors and will cater to a wide audience of policymakers, researchers, innovators, data scientists, journalists and citizens.

'India has made tremendous progress in generating and using data for policymaking and programme implementation. Efforts are needed to further strengthen the data ecosystem. NDAP, with its mission to be a one-stop and user-friendly data platform, will go a long way in transforming India's data ecosystem.'

NITI Aayog has championed the use of data in all spheres of governance. It has taken the lead in providing the nation with a simple and compelling platform where various datasets can be accessed together. There has been a longstanding gap in the data ecosystem, which has been sought to be addressed.

All datasets are not published in a user-centric manner that is analyzable and visually presented. Also, there are a multitude of datasets out there, which are not easily accessible. The NDAP proposes a simple, interactive, visual, and robust platform that will host various Central and State government datasets.'

An inter-ministerial committee will oversee the progress of the development of platform and a group of leading experts have been inducted into an advisory group to provide technical guidance for the development of the platform. The success of the endeavour is dependent on the cooperation and support of various stakeholders.

The development of NDAP will take place over a period of one year. The first version of the platform is expected to be launched in 2021. The process will follow a user-centric approach, and will incorporate feedback received from various users and stakeholders throughout the course of its development.

Overview

India has rich publicly available data. Government departments have digitised various processes and reporting requirements, which in turn are feeding into management information systems and interactive dashboards. This data is being used to track and visualise progress and make iterative improvements on the ground.

However, the data landscape can improve. All public government data should be easily accessible to all stakeholders in a user-friendly manner. Further, data across sectors should be coherent to support analysis and dissemination. In addition, there should be easy access to the most recent data, published reliably.

INVESTMENT FUND MANAGER LUCRATIVE CAREER CHOICE

Nidhi Prasad

The modern economy has thrown a lot of opportunities open to the students and the Banking Sector is the most lucrative option if you have a penchant to help others discover the best ways to get substantial returns on their nest eggs, are intrigued by analyzing risk, or are interested in helping businesses, buy other businesses, then consider a career in Investment Management.

Who is an Investment Fund Manager?

An Investment Fund Manager is someone who manages funds and investments for his or her clients in order to bring in the highest possible return on their money. They are responsible for managing the funds given to them by clients in an appropriate manner, taking into consideration the client's tolerance for risk, as well as the client's eventual goals and future plans.

Fundamentally, Investment Fund Managers take large amounts of money and invest it so that they can earn money for their clients. Investment fund managers provide financial advice and services to private and corporate clients about a range of investment matters, including buying and selling investment trusts and shares or bonds, to help these clients invest their money in the best places.

Investment Fund Managers work very closely with investment analysts - Fund Managers make decisions about investments, while analysts provide them with financial information and recommendations that enable such decisions to be made.

A Fund Manager is responsible for implementing a fund's investing strategy and managing its portfolio trading activities. The fund can be managed by one person, by two people as co-managers, or by a team of three or more people.

An Investment Fund Manager is responsible for researching different types of investments in order to determine the best possible options for his/her clients. They understand their client's preferences (including how much risk the client is comfortable with), and try to find the right mix of investments, while also maximizing the return on their investments.

Investment Fund Managers need to market their services, their knowledge, and their connections in order to acquire new clients. They then help these potential clients understand why investing with a fund manager is best for them. They must also continue to keep their current clients involved and confident in the state of their funds by

Challenges

Data is not published in a user-centric manner. The current data formats are often not conducive for research and innovation. Many departments maintain public Ministry of Rural Development, provides access to data from 42 schemes across 20 ministries. Various states also have a 'Chief Minister's Dashboard'. Initiatives like these provide a rich source of data for NDAP.

NDAP will take a user-centric approach to providing access to data. The platform will be powered by a user friendly search engine, backed by seamless navigation, with a world-class user interface. Data will be provided in a machine-readable format with provide a worldclass user experience. We strongly believe it will be an important tool for the nation's progress

♦ Technical Advisory Group

Way Forward

The first version of National Data and Analytics Platform is proposed to be released in 2021.

NDAP is a pan-India initiative by NITI Aayog. Its success requires extensive support and cooperation of various stakeholders such as Central Ministries, State Governments and guidance from experts to realise the vision and meet the timelines.

dashboards with visualisations, and options to download data in analysable formats. However, some datasets are only available in PDF, webpage or as an image, making it difficult for further analysis. If this issue is resolved, researchers and data scientists will significantly save time and resources in cleaning and preparing government datasets for analysis

Data ecosystem is incoherent due to different standards. Ministries and Departments do not use a shared standard for common indicators. Attributes like region and time period defined differently. This makes it difficult for datasets to speak to each other and present a coherent picture. If we can solve this, many use-cases can emerge. For example, a District Magistrate can access data across all departments for their district, easily, in one platform.

Approach

We intend to draw inspiration from the best platforms around the world. Significant progress in improving user experience while accessing data generated by the public, as can be seen in platforms such as 'datausa.io' and 'data.gov.sg'. The main utility of such platforms is to provide a seamless, interactive experience in accessing data across multiple socio-economic indicators in one place. Also, they provide datasets in a machine-readable format.

We also seek to build on the success of existing Indian data platforms. Over the years, notable improvements have taken place in the data publishing ecosystem. For example, data.gov.in provides ready access to data from 165 departments. DISHA, by the customisable analytics. Dynamic visualisations will be generated based on user search terms. The platform will be designed and optimised to the needs of policymakers, bureaucrats, researchers, innovators, data scientists, journalists, and citizens.

NDAP will provide access to data from multiple sectors in one place. Data will be sourced from different Central and State Ministries and Departments. This will be presented using a common schema, with clear definitions and narratives to help the user navigate the differences between similar data from different sources.

NDAP will be a reliable platform for up-to-date data. Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) will be developed to keep data updated. There will be regular tracking of compliance to these SOPs. Further, APIs, web-crawling and other methods will be used to keep the data fully up-to-date.

Success of NDAP relies on effective collaboration. NDAP goes beyond just developing a platform and will require extensive consultation. Inputs will be needed from data producers in the government to identify data sources and develop data processing techniques for the datasets to be coherent. Regular feedback from users -- policymakers, bureaucrats, researchers, innovators, data scientists, journalists, and citizens -- will also assist in ensuring the platform stays relevant.

NDAP has the potential to transform data-driven discourse, research, innovation, and decision-making in India. There are a large number of benefits for up-to-date and reliable data. NDAP's vision is to democratise access to public government data and periodically meeting with them to discuss the progress of their investments and provide reports and charts illustrating their performance.

INVESTMENT FUND ...

It is the job of an Investment Fund Manager to manage the investments of their clients, whether they are individuals or businesses. They are responsible for their client's money and thus must be very careful that they only grow their investments, and not the other way around.

Investment Fund Managers usually have a place in senior management, and make financial decisions that are very difficult to make money for their clients. It is their job to invest in different financial markets such as stocks, bonds, money market funds etc.

Investment Management is Fascinating: Investment Managers give people and companies advice on what to do with their money. This involves a kind of detective work that will be different each time you do it as you match investments with your clients. One day you might be helping a fashion designer, and the next day, it's a company that built an app to help disaster victims find relief and shelter. Every day is different, and, since investments can be affected by global events, extreme weather, and unpredictable things like human emotions, there is no time to be bored. You have to keep coming up with new and different investment strategies and ways to direct funds on behalf of clients.

What Investment Fund Manager Do?

Investment Fund Managers plan out an investment plan for their clients and depending upon the individual or business's needs, the Fund Manager will evaluate which investment options are best suited for that client. It is the goal of an Investment Fund Manager to make their clients assets grow. They must meet the client to determine what investment strategy will fit their needs.

- ♦ Researching various stocks or funds that may be in the news for recent product developments, earnings statements, or other reasons so as to attempt to extract maximum value from a potential or current investment
- ♦ Researching potential individuals or companies to target as potential clients
- ♦ Developing proposals for prospective clients, to help these potential investors understand their tolerance for investment risk and how that can correspond to their plans for the future
- ♦ Preparing reports for existing clients, to illustrate the success of their investments or to propose new investments that may help but tress their portfolio
- ♦ Continuing education and licensure sessions, in order to be able to offer a wider array of services to new and existing clients
- ♦ Reading financial briefings (often written by Investment Analysts)
- ♦ Making informed financial recommendations and decisions
- ♦ Keeping knowledge up-to-date about the economy, current financial news and financial markets
- ♦ Assessing and interpreting complicated financial information

Investment work provides high levels of responsibility, good promotional opportunities and impressive financial rewards for the most successful employees. The working hours may be less demanding than other investment roles but they are still long compared with other careers.

Students from finance always get confused about what they need to choose. They get confused as they receive mixed information from different sources. Some authorities say you should choose Investment Banking as its prospect is much better than portfolio or Asset Management.

Let's understand the basic difference between Portfolio Management (Asset Management) and Investment Banking.

Asset Management is all about managing clients' investments, and Investment Banking is all about raising the capital for clients.

So, the basic difference between these two is, in case of Asset Management, clients already have the money which you need to manage. Whereas, in the case of Investment Banking, clients don't have the money and you need to raise capital to support your clients.

Key Skills for Investment Fund Managers

Investment Fund Managers have distinct personalities. They tend to be an enterprising individual, which means they're adventurous, ambitious, assertive, extroverted, energetic, enthusiastic, confident, and optimistic. They are dominant, persuasive, and motivational. They have

- ♦ Good numerical and IT skills

- ♦ Team working skills

These Managers spend their days in a comfortable office environment working on their computers or laptops. Investment Fund Managers also spend a large portion of their time making contacts, converting them into clients, and then maintaining their clients, along with this, these Managers may travel in frequently to visit large clients.

There's a tendency to think that anyone who chooses to invest for individuals or businesses as a living is a numbers-cruncher. Numbers are definitely involved, but your main focus is Investment Portfolios, not equations and calculations. These portfolios should be as diverse as possible-comprised of lots of different businesses, projects, and sectors. Moreover, you have to tailor these portfolios to the needs, passions, and beliefs of your clients. In other words, Investment Management offers you remarkably rewarding opportunities to develop and innovate, delivering solutions that make a true difference in either the lives of individuals or in the way Business and capital move forward.
